ABOUT ME

I discovered my love for coding in university, driven by a passion for creating. Although it began as a hobby, life as an English teacher made me realize my heart belongs to coding.

Now, transitioning full-time to front-end web development, I blend creativity with functionality. I'm an adaptable learner, passionate about crafting user interfaces that resonate. Eager for opportunities in front-end development, I bring a unique blend of creativity and technical skills to turn digital visions into reality.
